A

1 December 2004

Dear IBI Creditor:

Through previous communications with you and your organization, Insect Biotechnology, Inc. (IBI) has made you aware of its difficult financial situation and intention to dissolve the company and cease business operations. On 1 December 2004, IBI filed a Certificate for Dissolution with the Secretary of State's Office in the State of Delaware and will cease all operations as of this date except for final winding-down activities.

According to IBI's records, you and/or your organization have an outstanding claim against IBI. As I have previously communicated to each of you, IBI is insolvent and is unable to meet any of its outstanding financial obligations. As such, the possibility of receiving any payment for your claim is unlikely. Nevertheless, in order to resolve all outstanding obligations and provide a final settlement of IBI's accounts, this letter will serve as a formal solicitation for claims against the company. Should you wish to proceed with a claim against IBI, it must be submitted within 60 days and must identify the claimant and the substance of the claim. Any claim not received by 31 January 2005 will not be considered. The Corporation or successor entity may make distributions to other claimants and the corporation's stockholders or persons interested in having been such without further notice to the claimant. During the 3 years prior to the date of dissolution of IBI, no distributions have been made to any of IBI's shareholders.

All claims must be presented in writing to the following address:

Insect Biotechnology, Inc.
P.O. Box 2311
Chapel Hill, NC 27515

Thank you for your past support of IBI's efforts.

Sincerely,

Alan E. Brandt, Ph.D.
President
